Subject: Congratulations on the low voter turnout

Dear [REDACTED]

An MP must be worthy of their seat. You are primed to effectively deepen the indentation on your cushion. I am pleased to inform you that only 62.8% of the Indian electorate voted in the Lok Sabha elections this year. In 2019, the turnout was 67.4% — making this commendable decline a feat for the history books. It would not have been possible without your skillfully weaponised incompetence. And your contribution to this accomplishment has enabled us to stifle any attempts to better India.

The booklet on voter apathy released by the Election Commission of India during the conference on low voter turnout shines brighter than the laurels on my mantle. Your effort towards delaying progressive projects fuels our commitment to maintaining the status quo for as long as it benefits us. The worst of the worst is behind us. Now is our time to shine.

It's time to do your bit in the Lok Sabha. Vote for comfortable mediocrity to reign supreme in your nation. Say aye to powering hindrances. Say no to those who usher in change.

For the best things in life are the ones that stay exactly the same — just like voter disengagement. I thank you for helping us in this endeavour this election season.

Warm regards,
[REDACTED]
Member of Parliament
